

Kendall Collins, LSLS Cert. AVEd Candidate

Teacher of the Deaf

M.S. Deaf Education Washington University, St. Louis

B.A. Health Science, University of Missouri (Mizzou )

Kendall joined the Desert Voices team in August 2017 and has been a small group teacher of the deaf in our preschool and toddler programs. In her classroom she uses a variety of listening and spoken language strategies to expand language, audition, and articulation skills in children ages 2- 6.

Kendall joined the Desert Voices team in August 2017 after completing her Master’s degree in the Program of Audiology and Communication Sciences at Washington University in St. Louis. Kendall is currently a candidate for the LSLS (listening and spoken language specialist ) certificate and is working towards those requirements.

In her free time, she enjoys hiking and backpacking with her husband and dog all around the SouthWest, but also loves a night at home with pizza and ice cream.
