I am originally from Phoenix, Arizona but spent four years teaching preschool in Utah and studying Early Childhood Education at Utah Valley University. I am happy to be back in Arizona and joining the Desert Voices team. I get deep satisfaction knowing that quality early childhood education can help a child develop strong self-esteem, problem-solving skills and independence. My mission is to create a fun and safe learning environment where children can expand their social, physical, emotional, and intellectual skills. I hope every child leaves my classroom with a love of learning!

When I am not in the classroom, I love doing anything outdoors and spending time with my family. I adore all things pink and all things cheetah print!
